We Have to Wash Our Necks and Ears Thr. e Times a Day," Is Message of Startled Boy

The country is a queer place and full of curiosities, both in the way of objects and customs Every city bred weman and child knows that. It takes a Fresh Air vacationer to discover the real curiosities, however.

One of these keenest of judges as to what is and what is not peculiar among the non-urban population lately made disevery of a shocking custom that prefting, and in which he was led by some means to join. He made known his disovery in a letter to his mother, "Dear mother." he wrote, and continued in the first sentence following, "we have to wash our necks and cars three times a
